Jordan sentenced to 16 years for sex crimes against multiple victims

Kendall County State's Attorney Eric Weis announced that Maxwell Jordan (dob: 05/02/93) of Montgomery, Illinois was sentenced to 16 years in the Illinois Department of Corrections on one count of Predatory Criminal Sexual Assault of a Child and one count of Aggravate Criminal Sexual Assault, by the Honorable Jody Gleason, at a sentencing hearing last month. Jordan had entered a plea of guilty to both counts early this year.

Jordan was charged after an investigation by the Kendall County Sheriff's Office, which began in late 2022, when Jordan voluntarily and unexpectedly came to the Sheriff's Office and confessed to sexually assaulting two minor children. It was learned that these two minors were relatives of Jordan, and he started abusing them when he was still a minor. At that time, law enforcement was unaware of these sexual assaults. Investigators then conducted interviews of the victims with the assistance of the Kendall County Child Advocacy Center. Jordan was quickly charged and has remained in custody.

After the contested sentencing hearing, Jordan was sentenced to 8 years in the Illinois Department of Corrections on each count, to be served consecutively with each other, for a total of 16 years in prison. After he completes his prison sentence, Jordan will then be on a mandatory supervised release term of 3 years to the rest of his life. Based on the nature of the offenses, Jordan will be mandated to serve 85% of his 16-year prison sentence and will have to register as a sex offender for the rest of his life. Additionally, Jordan will be subject to a sexually violent/dangerous person evaluation prior to any release from custody. Defendants can be civilly committed by the Attorney General's Office after their prison sentence is completed.

The case was prosecuted by both State's Attorney Weis, and Assistant State's Attorney Jennifer Cusack. Jordan was represented by the Office of the Public Defender.
